

SAFETY AND RELIABILITY SOCIETY LONDON BRANCH

---

You cannot manage what you do not know - Finding the unknown hazards

David Gleave (Aviation Safety Investigations)

Rob Knight (Independent)

James Turner (Wood)

Wednesday 17th October 2018

We cannot assess or mitigate a hazard if we do not know about it. We will all, at some time, seek to find hazards that have not been identified before. It might be for an activity that has never been carried out before or the first thorough review of an established activity. Finding the unknown unknowns is a challenge and there are no established techniques for doing this.

Come and hear four experienced safety practitioners give their advice on how to go about finding new hazards. Their presentations will be followed by a Q&A.

The meeting will begin at 1730, for an 1800 start and will finish by 1930. We will then have drinks in a local pub. Meetings are open to all, you do not need to be a member of SaRS to attend
